

MARIA HENNINGS HUNT

Maria's journey with Swanwick began in 1992, as an unpublished young writer, eager to learn all she could about the craft of writing. Thirty years on, she is a successful published writer of both fiction and non-fiction having worked for over 20 years in the travel industry, notably at Travel Trade Gazette and The Daily Express, as well as writing short stories for the women's press. She went freelance in 1999, whilst at the same time training to become a dance teacher.

In 2003, she founded Dance Generation, her southeast London based dance school, which now also offers Yoga and Metabolic Health Coaching and provides a platform for her weekly blog. She is also co-founder of LWLF (Live Wild Live Free) a social enterprise formed in April 2021.

Music plays a huge part in her life - providing inspiration for many of her short stories as well as her international choreography!

In 2023 she had two children's picture books published: 'The Lullaby Fairy' and 'Bear Hug'.

Maria is also currently Vice Chair of the Swanwick Writers Summer School.
